LexHAB and LexArt announce a joint art exhibition: HOME

The exhibit focuses on the essential role housing plays in our lives and the importance of affordable housing. Whether it is a physical place or an idea, ‘home’ can mean something different at each stage of life and varies by culture and geography. Housing as shelter is a universal human need that is inaccessible for too many, locally and globally.

A shelter is a need, a house can be a haven, a nest can be empty, a home can be inhabitable: climate change, income inequality, racism, violence, love, community, and family are just a few of the factors that impact our concept of home and our ability to attain and maintain a home.

HOME Opening Celebration: October 28, 4-6pm

Exhibit dates October 28- November 19,2023

Nye Gallery, 130 Waltham Street, Lexington MA
